Cut Income, Corporate Taxes If Provinces Accept Proposals

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today told a plenary session of the Dominion-provincial conference that if the Federal proposals to the provinces are accepted personal income tax will be lowered and the government also intends to reduce the element of double taxation of corporate income with its tendency to discourage risk-taking enterprise."

ADDRESSING the conference as it met in open session for the first time since last August, Mr. King reviewed the Dominion proposals as modified at the camera meetings and offered some new changes in the light of developments at the current meetings which began Thursday.

"In his proposals as they now stand, the Dominion government feels that it has gone as far as it possibly can in the light of its very heavy financial obligations," Mr. King said.

"While we have not shut the door to possible alternatives or adjustments, any such modifications will have to be on the basis of financial equivalents."

THE FEDERAL government was ready to withdraw from the gasoline tax field if the provinces were ready to accept reduced subsidies or if the Dominion was allowed to withdraw its offer to pay 90 per cent of the cost of the tax.

April 30 Deadline

Income Tax Must

Be Paid by Tuesday

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)—The income tax deadline is on the horizon for more than 2,000,000 Canadians.

Tax returns, with any balances outstanding, are due April 30.

THE FLOW OF MAIL into local tax offices across Canada has been increasing steadily for the last month and while no actual figures are available it appears likely that comparatively few have left in the last minute the job of making final report on their 1945 earnings.

Under the pay-as-you-earn policy most people have paid all but a small part of their tax and some fortunate ones as a reward for their additions and subtractions find that the government owes them a bit.

The usual procedure for wage and salary earners is to meet 10 per cent of the tax through regular pay-roll deductions. The balance is to be made up at the end of the year. Two important changes made last year affect the taxation wind-up now due.

The October budget brought a four per cent reduction in rates. Taxpayers had to make up the cut in lower deductions each month or month. For those it was waived until the end of the year, the effect against the remainder outstanding.

THE OTHER NEW FACTOR is family allowances which came into effect July 1, 1945. From the income tax paying brackets who receive allowance cheques—they were from $5 to $8 a month regular child-face the prospect of returning the money by paying the tax.

At the $3,000 scale all money from family allowances has to be turned back. Department officials estimate the federal treasury will retain about $17,000,000 of the money paid in allowances.

Definite figures will not be known until all returns are tallied and figures have been compiled, but the best guess is that some 2,000,000 Canadians will pay more than 10 per cent in taxes on their 1945 earnings. Over 2,155,000 of them will be in the income groups below $3,000. In the $3,000 bracket are about 160,000 Canadians. The tax average is $13,000, and was subject to revision depending on the national income.

Drew Makes Proposals

Ontario Offers to "Rent" Income, Corporation Taxes

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)—Premier George Drew of Ontario today told the Dominion-provincial conference that his government is prepared to rent personal income and corporation tax fields to the Federal government if the Dominion agrees to give up succession duties and five other fields of direct taxation.

HE SPOKE after Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked the provinces to give up income, corporation and inheritance taxes in return for an annual subsidy of $15 per capita.

Mr. King said any province which wished to continue collecting succession duties could do so but would be paying the Dominion for the right to do so.

According to the Dominion, the provinces would gain such as gasoline and amusement, if the provinces accepted reduced

Strikes Threatened

New Labor Strife Looms in Canada

By The Canadian Press

Restlessness in labor circles heightened during the week-end as union meetings in Toronto and Hamilton predicted possible strike action to gain higher wages and shorter hours.

THE UNITED electrical, radio and machine workers of America (U.M.W.), the Canadian council of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers (C.I.O.), the International Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (C.I.O.), and the Canadian Seamen's union (C.I.O.), all figures in the week-end to gain the two objectives for their members.

THE first and most definite strike action decided upon involved the U.M.W. and was announced at Toronto last night by J. J. Doherty, international representative.

HE SAID THAT about 1,500 men in the U.M.W. district in the U.S. are employed by the Anacostia American Brass Company, Ltd., of New York, will take strike action Wednesday following a breakdown in the negotiations between the union and the company.

Principal demands of the union include a minimum wage of $14.40.

At Hamilton, J. S. Jackson, of Toronto, director of the U.M.W., in addressing a convention of the union, said that the union is in a "state of emergency" and that a major strike movement on the part of the unions within the field of steel, mining, rubber, electricity and lumber in the next month or two is inevitable.

THE CONVENTION decided that every Canadian local of the union should take a strike vote.

On behalf of 50,000 workers in the Canadian automobile and farm implement manufacturing industries more than 40 delegates meeting at Toronto discussed demands for a 10 per cent wage increase and a 32 day and two weeks' vacation with pay.

IN ANOTHER accident on the same day, Robert Skutsky, son of S. M. Skutsky was struck on the head by a taxicab while walking along the high bridge over the hospital treatment at Lamont.

FOUR STORES in height the building is assessed by the city for a total of $72,475, of which $72,475 is for the property and $60,400 for the building. Finished in white, it is one of the most impressive of the city's office buildings.

During the construction the houses of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the offices of the oil controller and the Dominion Veterans' Land Act offices.

The council's action was taken five minutes after Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko denounced the plan as one that would delay action against Spain but announce.

Battle-Forged Ties Renewed Red Chevron Club Observes Battle of Ypres Anniversary

While it is "all very well" to talk about getting homes for returned men, a bigger worry is the problem of providing these with employment after they have those homes, according to Mayor Harry Ainlay's address delivered before the annual Ypres banquet of the 1914 Red Chevron Club in the Macdonald hotel Saturday evening.

UNDER CHAIRMANSHIP of R. G. Mosher, club president, more than 100 members and their guests attended one of the most successful functions ever held in the 20-year-old annals of one of Canada's "last man" organizations—"last man" because only those war veterans entitled to the First Great War's Red Chevron emblem are members of the association, with the result that there is no such thing as a "new member."

The occasion marked the April 22 remembrance of 31 years before, when the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the Second Battle of Ypres faced gas, the first time it was ever used in a military conflict—... faced it and held their line.

Mayor Ainlay told the gathering that "we must get commercial business into Edmonton." Expressing the view that the next census of this city's population will show a total of at least 125,000 persons resident here, Mr. Ainlay warned that "things we may leave undone in the next two or three years could hamper the future of this city." After the 30,000 mark, it is approaching the danger point, the speaker continued.

"TOO LONG in years past have we just muddled through," Mayor Ainlay asserted. "We must remedy that situation in the next few years." Pointing to the $14,000,000 worth of commercial building "on paper" in this city for the next two or three years, the mayor reminded his listeners that the City of Edmonton has spent more than $1,000,000 on providing ex-servicemen and their families with homes.

Mayor Ainlay's remarks were in reply to a toast to the City of Edmonton proposed by A. L. Brown, who declared that on the basis of the exploits of Edmonton's sons on the battlefield of the world, the future of the city was guaranteed.

R. E. Browne expressed the thanks of the Red Chevrons for Mayor Ainlay's address.

Other of the two principal speakers of the evening was Lt. Col. J. W. Proctor, O.B.E., district administrator for the federal department of veterans' affairs. Mr. Proctor, who is commanding officer of the recently formed 10th Armored Car Regiment (R), which perpetuates the old 10th Edmonton Fusiliers and the 10th Alberta Dragoons.

SPEAKING for the new regiment, Mr. Proctor said "I realize the responsibility which is ours in carrying on the traditions of these two units." Reviewing his war experiences, he declared that generally speaking, there was no difference between the two major wars.

"The infantry is still the Queen of the Battlefield," he declared, and other modern, armored equipment got "just so far" in the campaign that came in later and finished the war.

"I just want to make one point clear," the speaker concluded. "Every kid in Edmonton knows about the speed with which General MacArthur's American Fourth Army Division drove through Europe in the last days of the European war..."

"We (the Canadians) travelled faster and killed more Germans than Patton's outfit ever did... but we were under a two-month security blackout which prevented the people back home knowing about it."

After Mr. Proctor's address a toast to the services was proposed by Louis Scott, with the reply given by Jack Egan.

THE BANQUET was preceded by a brief ceremony at the Cenotaph, when Mr. Mosher, on behalf of the club, placed a wreath in memory of fallen comrades. More than 50 club members formed up in front of the monument. They were led by Mr. Egan as parade sergeant-major; Gordon Hauff had charge of the column.

Speakers in addition to Mayor Ainlay and Col. Proctor included Mr. Nightingale, who reviewed the history of what he termed "strictly social club," and described its objects as "perpetuating the ties of fellowship and good comradeship that had their beginning in the early days of the First Great War."

Mr. Mosher who welcomed the guests, out-of-town members and the ex-servicemen of membership in attendance; and Mr. Michaels, who declared that the young veterans of today know how to take care of themselves.

A PAST PRESIDENT'S lapel badge was awarded to Dalton Watson, who held office in 1935. Mr. Watson then turned his gavel over to Mr. Mosher, 1946 president.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Mickey McGinness, who sang several songs, a four-year navy veteran, and by a general sing-song which brought the evening to a close.

Two year old training
Court Fleet was a very nervous high-spirited youngster. In work-outs he would break his stride to jump a shadow on a truck. But, he steadied down and later ran the fastest mile ever made by a 2 year old—at 1:25 he overcame all opposition.

Ontario Offer
subsidies or withdrawal of some proposed federal grants.

Mr. Drew said his government would temporarily rent income and corporation tax rights to the Dominion on the condition that the Dominion government would vacate and undertake not to interfere during the term of the agreement the following fields of taxation—succession duties; gasoline tax; amusement tax; rate of port-pari-mutuel tax; security transfer tax and electricity.

2. That the Dominion recognize priority of provincial taxation with respect to mining and logging operations.

3. That the Dominion will give a definite undertaking not to enter any field of direct taxation other than personal and corporation income taxes, for the life of the agreement.

4. That the Dominion hold back made up of money deducted from time to time by the Dominion government under the wartime tax suspension agreements, and amount in Ontario's case is $286,000, will be paid to the provincial government.

5. IT SHALL be clearly established by explicit terms in the new agreement that in agreeing to rent the fields of corporation and personal income taxes, during the term of the agreement, the provinces should be deemed to have surrendered, abandoned, or given over to the Dominion government, all of the powers, rights, privileges, or authority vested in the provinces under the terms of the British North America Act, 1867, or any subsequent act of the parliament of the United Kingdom or otherwise have impaired any of such powers, rights, privileges, or authority.

6. The Dominion government will make available to the provincial governments and municipal corporations foreign exchange required to meet their existing external obligations in the United States at parity or exchange.

7. The Dominion government will assume the full cost of relief for unemployed employables.

8. THE DOMINION government will assume the full cost of old age pensions and pensions for the blind.

The plenary subsidies payable to the provinces for their share of the Dominion government's under of customs and excise duties under the British North America Act shall not be deducted from the annual rental payments to be paid to the provinces.

10. Following the ratification of the new agreement steps will be taken immediately by the co-ordinating committee, with the assistance of the economic committee and other assistance as may be deemed advisable, to conduct a thorough examination of the whole Canadian tax structure for the purpose of establishing a new and reformed system of taxation which will be clearly defined and clearly divided taxing powers between the Dominion and provincial governments.

11. The Dominion government will undertake that if within the term of the new agreement, satisfactory basis is not established for an improved system of taxation, it will reduce its taxes on corporation and personal incomes sufficiently to enable the provinces to recoup those fields of direct taxation upon the termination of the agreement now under discussion.

MR. DREW EXPLAINED that his speech was prepared before he had heard Mr. King's remarks. He said the federal proposals with respect to taxation were not new but did not substantially change what he had to say.

Dr. Drew added that "except to the extent they may be varied by the federal government, the new agreement will stand on the same basis as made in her brief of January."

In his prepared brief Mr. Drew

Domination government to retire from all the minor fields of direct taxation.

"The Dominion government now asks for the exclusive occupancy of the field of succession duties. That is a new concession which the Dominion government expressly stated it was not seeking even during the emergency period of the war agreements. The Dominion government also proposed that it remain in other fields of direct taxation which it never at any time entered until the recent period of emergency war financing."

Mr. Drew said the Ontario government had no intention of vacating the succession duties field which "is so clearly one of provincial jurisdiction."

IN CONCLUSION, he said: "It perhaps should be said again in this open conference that the Ontario government has at all times expressed its belief in the principle of fiscal aid to those provinces which from time to time require special financial assistance and that Ontario proposed the setting up of a national adjustment fund for that purpose. We will agree to any form of administration of that fund approved by this conference."

CANADA NEEDS THESE MEN

THE United Church of Canada ministers to one-fifth of our total population—serving over 2,750 churches and pastoral charges. Men who enter this great ministry, truly embrace a life of self denial.

From April 28th to May 12th, a nationwide campaign is being conducted to raise $3½ million for a Pension Fund for the aged ministers... and for their widows and children.

The average minister receives about $1,650 yearly. The great disparity between the intellectual attainments, the moral leadership and the devoted services of ministers, when compared with their material rewards, is not perhaps sufficiently appreciated.

In common with all Canadians, The Bank of Toronto is aware that, today, Canada is beset by grave moral as well as social problems, for the solution of which Canada needs the quieter counsels of moral and spiritual wisdom.

It is because Canada so urgently needs these men—and all such men—whatever their creed, denomination or religious affiliation—that this Bank commends this worthy cause to your attention.

AS FOR HIS OWN sentiment, Streicher said:

"I did not want to cause hatred or anger—I only wanted to explain the Jewish problem."

He observed blandly that Martin Luther was anti-semitic, wrote violent sentiments against the Jews, and if the circumstances and timing had been different "would very probably be sitting in my place on the defendants' bench."

Streicher said that German newspapers supported the anti-semitic campaign of "enlightenment," and claimed of his own publications that "I enlightened the masses in the most popular way of all."

HE NEVER INCITED ill treatment of the Jews, he said, and they were "nowhere as safe as in Nuremberg," where Streicher's propaganda organ Der Stürmer was published.

He said Hitler "always told us" that a man was a man he worshipped, a man of action, but he was surprised by Jews.

Gen. Roman Rudenko, Soviet prosecutor, interrupted to support Jackson's request for strong condemnation of Streicher by the tribunal.

Jackson had interrupted angrily to suggest to the court that Streicher "be admonished and admonished in a way he can understand—if that is possible."

AT ANOTHER POINT he asked the court to have Streicher "turned to his cell and have no further remarks he wants to make submitted in writing."

Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence warned the witness that the court did not "tolerate further insolence."

The ROAD AREA

By HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

A GREAT many people, whose judgments in the past have usually been sound, have been forecasting troubled times in the not too distant future. Even the more optimistic persons, who believe that we will have prosperity and reasonably full employment for the next year or so, have predicted a depression in from three to five years. And now the indications are that we are in for an inflationary boom—which is the surest sign of eventual depression.

Beef Shortage

Shortage of beef on the Edmonton market is likely to continue to be as urgent this week as it was last, according to indications at the Edmonton stockyards. The number of cattle received in the yards Monday was only 190, or five more head than the average for the same time last week.

"There will be little trouble clearing up at the lower prices," J. E. Fetherstonhach of the Edmonton stockyards said, and likelihood of a break in the deadlock between producers, dealers and the packing plants.

On the corresponding Monday in 1945 cattle receipts at the local yards were almost twice as heavy with 398 head. Prices were at the same level at that time.

Fifteen Arrested

During Week-End

Fifteen persons were arrested during the week-end by city police with seven being charged with intoxication, while others were charged with theft, possession of stolen property, and obstructing a police officer. Two soldiers, picked up by police, were turned over to the prison court.

ONLY MINOR TRAFFIC accidents were reported during the week-end with no one receiving serious injuries.

One of the main causes of concern to police Saturday night and Sunday were business premises secured by the uniform department being called on to investigate stolen plates left undisturbed, including a bank that had a window open 12 inches.

$80 at 60 Is Demanded

United Action Is Said Need For Higher Aged Pensions

A united people incessantly demanding the Dominion government to pay a retirement pension to all Canadians of $60 a month at the age of 60, without a means test, is the one way to get action. This was the keynote of the addresses given by three speakers at a mass meeting held in the Memorial Hall Sunday afternoon. About 250 persons attended.

SPEAKERS WERE: Mrs. Elizabeth Sterling Haynes, N. H. James, M.L.A., and W. J. Williams, M.L.A. Chairman of the meeting was Mrs. Edith Rogers, president of the Edmonton branch of the Social Security Association.

"If we can give billions of dollars to foreign countries, which are sold will bring trade to Canada in years to come, why can we not raise trade within our country by raising the pensions to our pioneers and to give them more purchasing power," suggested Mr. James.

With regard to the means test, or what Mr. James referred to as the "shame test," he said "this money should go to the pioneers—not as charity—but due to the fact that they have earned it." He then spoke of the age and explained how there is, at present, a ten-year lapse, from 60 to 70 years, when a man is too old to find work and too young for the old age pensions.

HE CONCLUDED with a plea that the people also agree that the blind persons pension age be lowered to 60 years old and that the pension be $60 a month.

Mr. Williams claimed that the $30 old age pension people are receiving today is not worth the same as $15 in 1939, due to the rise in prices. This would cost the state $800,000, to pay pensions of $60, stated the Legion representative. "It war broke out tomorrow, this money would soon be found, but to raise it for the pioneers of our country is too much of effort for the government," declared Mr. Williams.

HE ALSO EXPLAINED that "in England, a country of practically no natural resources and a country that is broke, the retirement pension was raised 150 percent recently."

Mrs. Haynes recited a piece of poetry, depicting citizens' lives in Canada up to old age, and the predicament they usually found themselves in.

The chairman outlined the work to be done by the Social Security Association. At the conclusion of the meeting post cards were handed out that are to be signed by Canadian citizens and sent to Ottawa. The card is addressed to the prime minister of Canada, and carries the demand that a retirement pension be paid to all Canadians of $60 a month at the age of 60, without a means test.

School Children Return to Studies

Thousands of Edmonton school children Monday filed to their desks to resume their studies after a 10-day Easter holiday recess and were in the process of "settling down" for another period of reading, "ritin" and "rithmetic."

ALWAYS accompanying the youngsters' return to school is another subject which seldom receives mention, and that is the painstaking preparations made by their mothers in getting them ready for the big event.

Up early with lunches made and with an eye to the textbooks to see if Johnny had left one behind the parlor radio or on the end of the chest-dress, mother as manager-in-chief gives a last look of general inspection.

POLISHED SHOES, clean faces and properly brushed hair for both Johnny and Mary are the essentials of the morning routine and watches them skit off to school.

The teachers, too, show that they've been busy "prepping up" during the Easter holidays, and many appeared Monday with touches of modest feminine glamor in charming new gowns and attractive new twist in a smart hairdo.

Yes—in Edmonton it's back to study until the next holiday, and every time the kids return after a holiday they seem to have grown a little more. Maybe that's why Edmonton children are noted for diligence in their scholastic pursuits—their parents know that time flies.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the government's decision to place a line on beer glasses in order to standardize the quantity served to the customer?

THE ANSWERS

TOMMY ATCHISON, prospector: It's about time something was done. I like the old beer and I only hope the government will do it like the line is placed right at the top of those glasses with a gold-plated edge.

ALEX. BOCK, clerk: I think it's a step forward, and considering that the government derives a good deal of revenue from beer, the consumer will be glad that at least he's getting something of a break.

ELIZABETH BENTON, spinster: The only comment I will give you is that it is too bad there are such things as beer glasses.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Want Less Cosmetics
But Fail to List BrainsMain Thing That Keeps the Bobby-Sockers Gussing
Is Just What It Takes to Make a Girl
Popular With the Boys

The main thing that keeps the bobby-sockers gussing is just what it takes to make a girl popular with the boys. They are too young and inexperienced to know the answer, so they worry their pretty heads over whether to run after Tom Dick and Harry, or run away from them; whether to play coy, or do the courting; whether to be clingy, or free, or starchy. Well, at long last the problem has been solved. A miracle has happened. The waxes have spoken, and told what they like in girls, and what they expect of them. A group of these altruists have furnished me with the following data:

(1) "We don't mind the girls having freckles. Why the heck do they hide them? We don't want to look like shiny noses, but we do object to their dragging out their powder puffs every five minutes. (2) Deliver us from wilted hair ribbons. We like flowers in their hair and maybe a speck of perfume, but not a gallon. (3) We like the girls to be easy on our pocketbooks. (4) Show us a girl with gleaming hair, a fresh clean face and a figure that is right for wearing and skirts and she will be Number One on our lists."

SO THERE you are, sweeties, and if not making up your faces in public and combing dandruff into sleeves all day, it takes to make you popular with the boys. I make you popular with the boys. I don't see why any one of you shouldn't have the puck following you. I am astonished at their meanness. They miss so many good bits.

For instance, they didn't even mention beauty, yet good looks have been rated as a girl's chief asset from time immemorial. They score one for the critics, for it will certainly be much easier for a girl to make a hit with the boys if she doesn't have to be also Miss America to do it.

Another tribute upon the boy friend seems to put no stress in the girls' disposition. Apparently he doesn't care whether she is as sweet and gentle that butter-milk melts in her mouth, or whether she has a temper hung on a hair-trigger that goes off like a loaded gun. Maybe she is one of the green girls who takes the best of everything for herself, or she may be a female Hitler who will let any person who stands in her way, may be a jealous girl who doesn't allow a rival near the throne. You would think that any boy would pass up a girl who had to be continually appeased and with whom he had to watch his step, but it would seem that being hard to get along with doesn't keep a girl from having dates.

THE strange omission of the quality that boys admire most in girls is intelligence. Not a word is said about it. It is one of the list of the charms that they desired in girls even so much as mentioned here. So far as we may judge, a girl who is a dumbbell and who has no interest in conversation, who never reads a book, or gets the fine points of a play is just as desirable as one who is a speller.

THE only catch in all of this is that the qualities that keep the bobby-sockers dates with the girl are not the qualities that make her a desirable person. They are the qualities that make her a desirable person. They are the qualities that make her a desirable person. They are the qualities that make her a desirable person.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN—

Why Grow Old?

If you'll spend some thought on trying to overcome some of the things that irritate you, a smile like Actress Joan Winfield's may be your reward—and you'll live longer, too.

MOST OF us manage our money better than we do our minds. We are blown higher and thinner on the winds of rage depression and discouragement, inner excitement and sunny outlook, and most of the time we have no idea why we feel as we do. We blame it on our glands or on life in general. Few people take the trouble to try to observe themselves in order to find out the underlying causes. This is partly due to the fact that often people who are so busy with their own lives that they are unable to see the things that are really making them feel as they do.

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
LIFE being as complex as it is, it seems that some physical analysis of our own lives may be a useful thing. We may find that we are really as healthy as we think we are, or we may find that we are really as unhealthy as we think we are. We may find that we are really as happy as we think we are, or we may find that we are really as unhappy as we think we are.

LOOKING AT oneself objectively is a difficult thing to do. We are almost certain to indulge in wishful thinking and it is hard to face facts about ourselves because we are constantly trying to build up a picture of ourselves. We dislike admitting, even to ourselves, that we are not as good as we think we are. We dislike admitting, even to ourselves, that we are not as good as we think we are.

Alexander Prefers

Battle to Painting

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Canada's new governor-general, Viscount Alexander—said Sunday in a story written for the London Dispatch that he was "glad I chose soldiering as a career rather than that of a painter."

His article, entitled "The adventure of painting as a hobby," was written while the field marshal was en route to Canada to take up his new appointment.

The outstanding commander wrote: "I have fought many battles but when war hours comes I have generally been able to see pretty clearly how the battle would develop. But when I am faced with a large white canvas, I must confess I suffer badly from the fog of war. This is the great adventure and part of the fun."

Road Ahead

happened to the price of homes and real property. The black market operations have been watched so that, in the west at least, they have not reached proportions serious enough to be of any economic importance.

However, this price control was made possible during the war years by a system of subsidies, high taxation, Victory Bond drives to take up extra purchasing power, and the willingness of people to put up with many inconveniences and discomforts because they felt that it was necessary if victory was to be won.

BUT NOW THAT the war is over the moral reason for producers to continue to produce in the face of exorbitant taxation has largely disappeared. Neither does labor feel that there is any reason why their wages should continue to be high, or that they should be expected to increase production without corresponding increase in net pay (after taxation, etc.). So that while control is still possible, it has become so difficult that the government was forced by pressure to relax the controls. Immediately there was any sign of relaxation the whole thing started to go—and it is pretty certain that we are going to witness some increase in inflation during the next few months.

The people who put on the pressure for the relaxation of controls must have realized it would lead to depression. So at this point we come to the second question, what would happen to a depression, and what?

I DOUBT IF ANYBODY wants inflation, in itself. But there are a great many people who think that a mild depression at this point would be a good thing. Depression does two things. First it causes those wage earners who are apt to be thrown temporarily out of work to spend their savings. Secondly it leads to lower wages all the way around in production circles, and this results in lower costs and consequently in lower prices.

A depression five years from now would be a bad one, and probably a long one. This might result in such widespread discontent that it could well result in a change of government and the exchange of our capitalist system for some other system. People don't want horses when they are winning the race—but practically anyone is willing to change a continual loser for an unknown, much touted long shot.

A QUICK DEPRESSION now would not have such important consequences. People have their savings to see them through. Due to the continuing shortages, many businesses have not yet attempted to expand to meet post-war demands. Therefore it would not hurt anybody too much and we could recover quickly—certainly before the next bout of inflation sets in with labor weakened, wages and prices down, our exporters would be in a better position to meet world competition.

Who says government doesn't give us what we want? It seems to be trying to give some people what they want.

Trade Minister

Addresses Parley

The credit unions represent the financial arm of the co-operative movement, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry, told the delegates at the fourth annual conference of the Credit Union League of Alberta in the Masonic Temple on Friday.

CREDIT UNIONS should make efforts to finance co-operatives, the minister said, either by support of the organizations or the members as individuals.

If this is not done, he warned, the surplus now being accumulated by co-operatives might possibly be used to finance other co-operatives, which would result in the creation of a further financial arm to the co-operative movement, and thus duplication of services.

Those who belong to credit unions seem to expect that persons associated with the co-operative movement should belong to their unions, but the same argument could be applied in the other direction. Mr. Gerhart said as he urged the delegates to join co-operatives.

THAT the government of Alberta supported the credit union movement was evident, he said. The government in Canada which has set up a branch of the government service to assist in the foundation and the administration of the unions.
